

Haymes Paint.

True Australian Character.

Born in Ballarat in 1935, our family run business is now in the hands of the fourth generation of Haymes. Haymes Paint is an Australian owned paint company that has been developing and manufacturing coatings products in Australia for over 84 years. Haymes Paint has always been focussed on the delivery of the best quality and performing paint for Australian homes, as our Chairman David Haymes stated in the 1980's, "we never take shortcuts on quality".

Product testing

Haymes Paint Product ranges, are the equal of or superior in performance to equivalent competitor products here in Australia. Our exterior paints are subjected to long term exterior exposure at our Ballarat site in Victoria and also at an approved weathering exposure site in far north Queensland near Townsville.

Exterior testing panels.

Only products that survive years of severe and rigorous testing at these sites will be put into a Haymes Paint can. Our interior products are subjected to extensive testing for resistance to household stains, scrubbing, washing and dry burnishing, to ensure that they will remain looking good for longer.

Our aim is to always have the best possible product that can be delivered to market in terms of application, performance on walls and other surfaces and its impact on the environment.

Our success is built upon our products and people. As we are not a foreign owned multinational or owned by shareholders and large capital funds, we can invest continually back into our research and development and manufacturing to ensure that we always deliver innovative products with the best performance and quality.

Haymes and the environment

As a family owned business, it is important to Haymes that we acknowledge the significance of sustainability and the protection of our environment for generations to come.

Consistent with aiming to produce the best products available, user health and comfort are a major focus. To ensure user comfort, our products are manufactured using low odour raw materials and minimal solvent content wherever possible. Haymes Ultra Premium Expressions ceiling and wall paints are amongst the highest quality products available and are virtually VOC free.

Haymes paint is among the founding members of Paintback®, established in 2016, is a world-first, industry-led initiative designed to divert unwanted paint and packaging from ending up in landfill and vital waterways. Paintback® is committed to researching new ways to re-purpose unwanted paint materials.
